Update: Please refer to www.jsgsb.org.uk for additional information. On this website you will find links to JCR-UK, a most important part of our activities where we are endeavoring to trace and record every Jewish Community that existed or now exists in Great Britain. There are considerable numbers of records now available for members to search and the JCR-UK database is searchable by non-members. We expect during the course of this year to have on-line the index to the archives of the United Synagogue, which will be of considerable interest to anyone interested in genealogical research in the UK. These records date back well into the 18th century.
